I am an ambitious Frontend Developer with over a year of programming experience, mainly focused on web technologies such as HTML, CSS, JavaScript, React and TypeScript. I am determined to improve my skills and my interest is still growing.

Additionally, during my learning, I focus on developing competences in creating back-end using Node.js and the Express framework. I also have basic knowledge of database management, in particular MongoDB. This allows me not only to design attractive and responsive user interfaces, but also to build back-end solutions.

My dream is to create professional full-stack websites, especially for companies where I want to use the acquired knowledge and skills to provide innovative and effective solutions. I am ready for new challenges and always open to learning to constantly improve the quality of my work.
